ABSTRACT

The Engenni people group who claim descent from Benin at about the late eight and early ninth centuries A.D; as distinct as they were had contact with the Christian Gospel through the effort of the Baptist Mission during the late nineteenth century A.D. This contact was made possible through the efforts of pioneer missionaries like Bishop A. Crowther and Dr. M. Agbebi via the river lines of the Kalabari. The coming of the Baptist mission to Engenni had great significance on the people, the environment and its surrounding neighbours. The chapter one of this research work, shall briefly look at the People Called Engenni. The chapter two talks about the Baptist Mission Work in Engenni; while in chapter three we shall be looking at the Interaction Between Religion: Baptist Tradition and Engenni Traditon. Finally in chapter four we shall consider the Summary and Conclusion of this research work.
